HE IS RATHER PLEASED WITH BEING A STATESMAN.

Has been allowing himself to get Mashed By the Frankfort Girls-Interesting Gossip About Pending Bills.

FRANKFORT, Ky. Feb. 4.—Perhaps never in the history of this quaint old town was the excitement so high over a Senatorial race as it is to-day. There have been wild times here in the past; but it was always before the Democratic caucus, but now it is between two great political parties—each doing its very best to secure the votes of the other. The excitement is so high that it is believed is not far away. At the Cuban headquarters the utmost enthusiasm prevails in spite of the knowledge of the fact that the resolution offered to-day does not mean an actual recognition of the insurgents as that can only come from the President.

But many believe that the resolution to-day was inspired by Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Olney, from the fact that it came so close upon the heels of the other which only sought to secure recognition from Spain for the island. It is argued that Mr. Olney is desirous of recognizing the insurgents, but desires a legitimate excuse for doing so. The resolution if passed affords that excuse. A member of the senate said tonight that he believed the resolution would be put through in the next two weeks and then in another month the executive would make a formal recognition of the belligerents while at the same time he would declare to be neutral.

The Cuban flag is displayed in many places tonight and the cry of "live long Cuba" is constantly shouted along the avenue.

Overseer Opens His Bid.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Four thousand and six hundred and forty bids for $558,268,850 worth of bonds.

Such is the total of the subscriptions opened at the Treasury Department today in accordance with the terms of the call issued a month ago inviting proposals for $100,000,000 of United States 4 percent bonds to run for one year, maturing Jan. 1, 1896. These figures do not include about $120,000,000 of "crank" bids rejected as bogus.

It is possible to tell with definiteness how many bids and for what aggregate had been received at figures in advance of the upset price of 110. Such is the case with a private bank of J. T. Morgan & Co., Pliny, Fink & Co., and the Deutsche Bank, of Berlin, offered to take the whole loan. The bids came from as far up as a single $50 bid at 150. It is impossible, therefore, to say at this time how the awards will be made.

Bids came from several thousand individuals and from hundreds of national banks and other banking institutions. Nearly all of the leading New York dealers and big insurance companies were represented in the list of bidders, but with few exceptions they were outmaneuvered by the Morgan syndicate.

Four Wills Probated.

W. D. Ferguson's will was admitted to probate Monday. He names his son Harry Ferguson as executor. The executor is authorized to sell as much of the property as may be necessary to pay the debts, the remainder to go to himself, as the only heir. The will was dated December 2, 1895. Benj. Downer's will was also placed on record. He names his sons F. N. and J. W. Downer as executors, without security, and he bequeaths his entire estate, after his debts have been paid, to his children in equal shares. The will was dated Aug. 17, 1895. A codicil Sept. 6, '93 authorized the executor to sell the real estate for division.

Dr. Dan E. Collins appointed his wife, Mrs. Mary P. Collins, as executrix, leaving all his property to her, after the payment of his just debts. The will was dated May 27, 1895. Benj. Lacy's will was probated and the following disposition made of his property. David M. Lacey being appointed executor without bond David W. Robinson was given $25,000; Cora and Belle Cavanah, daughters of Geo. H. Cavanah, $10,000 each; Jane Robinson, $20. He directed the sale of his personal property, the proceeds to go to the Bar-Ist Association to which he had belonged, for the use of indigent ministers, or for missions. Whatever remains on notes and other items to go to the same association. This will bears date of Oct. 18, 1893.

The amended Graziani pool-room bill passed the Lower House of the General Assembly of Kentucky by a vote of 71 to 13. The bill was amended so as to allow pooling on races at the tracks, but kills the city pool-rooms, by making it felony to operate them, and imposing a heavy fine on any person who rents a room to pool-room operators.

Geo. W. Smith, editor of Justice, who was convicted of criminal libel in Louisville several months ago and fined $377, was placed in jail last Saturday in default. Numerous efforts had been made to collect the fine, and a satisfactory arrangement is not made. It will have to serve out his jail term.

TO RECOGNIZE CUBA.

A Resolution Agreed Upon in the Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today agreed upon a substitute for the resolution heretofore reported on the question of the recognition of Cuba, and authorized Senator Morgan to report it to the Senate. The substitute is in the shape of a concurrent resolution. The recognition of Cuba it is believed is not far away. At the Cuban headquarters the utmost enthusiasm prevails in spite of the knowledge of the fact that the resolution offered to-day does not mean an actual recognition of the insurgents as that can only come from the President.

PARTY FEELING

IS RUNNING HIGH IN THE LEGISLATURE AT FRANKFORT.

All of the Members Now Present and Only Five Bidders Hold Out—A Crisis Near at Hand in the Senatorial Race. Miss Guy Elected.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 6, 3 p. m.—Miss Guy, the Democratic nominee was to-day elected State Librarian, receiving the votes of all the Democrats and the two Populists. There were no new developments in the Senatorial contest.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 6.—Representative J. C. W. Beckham, of Nelson, arrived at this breaking and was sworn in. Senator Ogilvie was also on hand. The joint assembly met at noon to take the 13th ballot for U. S. Senator. Haywood voted for Blackburn, causing the first break in the anti-Blackburn ranks. Holloway followed, voting for Blackburn. The great crowd seem to go wild and shook the hall with cheers.

Sen. Senator Stege's name was called by the voters for Hunter. Great applause from the Republicans followed Stege's vote.

An intensely bitter feeling prevailed during the morning. Extra reinforcements at arms were sworn in to prevent trouble, which may occur at any time.

The Tompkins-Woerner Contest Committee is ready to report, but the Kaufman-Dunlap contest report is not ready. Dr. James says that there is to be a private battle about rushing these contests through the House. They may not come up before next week and when they do they will be a man who was sworn in to each side will probably be allowed for a full discussion. The contest will be settled according to law, and by this time the excitement will have so far subsided that there will be no revolutionary proceedings in the House and no violence in the joint assembly.

The Republicans now deny that they have ever taken any action in the caucus on the contested seats. They say to be with any hurry about this business, and that everything shall be done decently and in order. This will at least prevent any sudden eruption in the general assembly.

The Democrats in joint caucus to-night decided to fight the Republicans with fire and decided on their line of action. When the Republicans meet Kaufman and Tompkins, as they will, four Republican senators will be thrown out.

The joint assembly clerk, William Crowell, was to-night ordered by resolution of the caucus to call no more names. Crowell was removed from his position. It was shown to him in strict accordance with the rules.

The sergeant-at-arms, Col. Bob Tyler, will swear in about twenty special deputies to stand guard at the door and here it is openly predicted that they will be bloodied. Among those who will be sworn in are Capt. Jim Williams, Col. Jack Chin and "Baldy" Polgore. That they will have a caldus battle and that they will decide to vote for their conviction by their lives is conceded by all who know them.

These prompt preparations for a battle have called another halt and the Republicans are once more becoming as mild as lambs. The chances now are that they will be shot about attempting anything of a revolutionary nature.

The market this week showed a slight improvement over last week's prices. About 50 hogheads were offered and there were only a few takers. Some very good leaf was sold and prices on this grade went as high as $8.70. Good signs also commanded very satisfactory figures. Receipts are lively and will continue to boom until the large crop of '96 is all in. Loose buyers report some activity in that branch of the business.

New Depot to be Built.

The plans for a new depot at Slaughterhouse have been approved by the L. & N. Company and the new building will be erected early in the spring.

CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

Four Wills Probated This Week—A Work House Case—Assignment—Burglary—Other Matters.

A Protest Against Postell.

In spite of the efforts of the Board to keep its action secret, the facts in regard to a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the Asylum Tuesday, have leaked out and became street talk Wednesday. The Board is now made up of five Democrats and four Republicans. All of the members except Mr. Geo. C. Long, one of the Republicans, were present. A resolution was offered by President Knight protesting against the appointment of John Postell as steward and calling upon Gov. Bradley to withdraw his name. After a warm discussion, a vote was taken and the resolution was adopted by a vote of 6 to 1, all the Democrats and one Republican supporting it and one Republican voting against it and one Republican refusing to vote.

The Postell case is again very much worked up and another delegation is liable to be sent post haste to Frankfort to straighten out things Wednesday. The Board is evidently divided with the idea that he still has a chance.

An Editor's Sudden Illness.

GLASGOW, Ky., Feb. 5.—C. C. Pare, business manager of the Glasgow Times and acting as editor in the absence of J. M. Richardson at Frankfort, was taken suddenly and violently ill at the dinner table to-day while dining out with a friend, and the physician who attended him pronounced his trouble congestion of the brain. Mr. Pare worked at the office until 2 o'clock this morning superintending the going to press of his paper, and was apparently as well as usual up to that moment before the attack. He was considered in a dangerous condition this afternoon, but to night he has somewhat improved and is resting easily.

LaFayette News.

LaFayette, Ky., Feb. 5.—The meeting which has been in progress at the Methodist church for two weeks, closed last night. Three additional conversions and three additional to the church. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Lore, was assisted by Revs. Lawson and Bowles.

Mrs. Jane Kendrick, who lives about five miles from here, in Montgomery county, Tenn., had her farmhouse broken open last Sunday night and about 700 pounds of bacon stolen. A part of the meat was found the next day in the woods a short distance from the house, and yesterday Martin and Ed Carter, colored, were arrested charged with the theft.

Marshall of Providence Killed.

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Feb. 4.—William M. Smiley, town marshal, was shot here to-night while attempting to arrest James and Jordan Hughes, farmers of near town, for drunkenness. James, who is a hard drinker, had made his escape in the darkness, but Jordan is in custody. A posse is in pursuit and it is thought that James will be captured before morning.

Great excitement prevailed. Mr. Smiley had been on the duty only two weeks and was a vigilant and fearless officer. He leaves a wife and three children.

Marble Dealer Assailed.

Mr. T. F. Brown, dealer in marble and monumental work, has assigned, naming Judge Joe McCarrall, as assignee. The liabilities, as shown by the schedule, amount to $6,277. The assets consist of a stock of marble goods and monumental work, tools for carrying on the business, some real estate, and a lot of accounts. Mr. Brown has been in very bad health for some time, and has, together with slow collections and dull trade, caused him to take the step in order that all his creditors might be protected alike.

Sent Up for Seventy-eight Days.

Charles Archibald, col., was arrested near Newstead Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff V. R. Williamson, on a charge of carrying a pistol and pointing same at another. His trial occurred Wednesday, before Judge Breathitt and he was given 78 days in the work house. He has been in there, together with another negro, with a warrant for his arrest, and they had a lively race for half a mile before the negro stopped and threw up his hands. The negro took a shot or two at the negro, but failed to hit him.

Raided the Asylum Felt House.

A few nights ago thieves broke into one of the lock-rooms of an out-building of the asylum and carried off about $15 worth of bed clothes. The burglars picked off the lock and helped themselves, but fortunately there was very little booty at hand and the haul was not a very small one.

HIRAM LIKES IT.

HE IS RATHER PLEASED WITH BEING A STATESMAN.

Has Been Allowing Himself to Get Mashed By the Frankfort Club's Interesting Gossip About Pending Bills.

FRANKFORT, Ky. Feb. 4.—Perhaps never in the history of this quaint old town was the excitement so high over a Senatorial race as it is to-day. There have been wild times here in the past, but it was always before the Democratic caucus, but now it is between two great political parties—each doing its very best to secure the Senator. Senator Ogilvie came in yesterday and to-morrow the representative from Nelson County will be here and then if the Populist Poor votes for Hunter, which it is generally understood that he will, then the joint caucus will be a decided thing and will remain so, until the unseating process is begun; and when once this begins only "He who watches the fall of a sparrow" can tell where it will end. As for my part I am tired and sick of the whole matter and wish it was over. There are a number of good and true men here, who want to do something for the good of the whole people; but nothing can or will be done to amount to anything until the Senator is elected, and if anybody is unseated the whole concern will get so very angry that I fear no good will be accomplished. One thing is certain the Governor will not call an extra session. I think is generally understood. Any way one month has gone and if anything has been done for the good of Kentucky, it can only be seen with a spy-glass.

The people here are quite sensible and clever. The ladies are the handsomest I have seen for many a long day. In fact I give it as my opinion that there are more prettier girls here to the square acre than in any other city over which flies the American flag. Most of the members are married men. Now and then you will find a poor tired lonely old bachelor, either baldheaded or an old field school teacher; and who ever heard of an old field school teacher being married?

The cemetery here is quite an interesting spot. In it sleep the ashes of many of Kentucky's bravest and truest sons. The monument over the grave of Daniel Boone has been defaced by relic hunters until it is a sight. Perhaps some of your readers are not acquainted with the history of Daniel Boone. I do not know much about him myself. I only know the books say he was one of the first explorers of the Western country; and his exploring days are over now.

The post-office here is kept in the government building. It is a nice house, but is far behind the one in office as a tall candle is in brilliancy behind the noon day sun.

There is a bill before the House looking to an amendment to the constitution whereby the Capitol can be moved from here. I do not know whether it will ever pass. I think I know this much however, if Kentucky ever builds a new Capitol she will not build it here. The old Capitol is a shame and a disgrace to a great State like Kentucky. It ought to be turned into a school of reform or something else and a new one built.

The Governor in his message recommended the abolishing of the office of Commonwealth's Attorney. I for one do not think this advisable. I know every thief, thief, murderer, cut-throat and red-handed assassin from the Big Sandy to the Mississippi river will be in favor of it. In my opinion when this is done and the prosecution of criminals is turned over to a lot of boyish country attorneys, that prison doors will fly open as if by magic, and red-handed murderers will sweep over the land like a wild contagion over a pestilence stricken city.

When you put such men as Gov. Brown, Gov. Bradley, J. B. Garnett and others, for the defense and the average county attorney alone for the prosecution, what will become of society—who will be safe out in the cold wicked world?

But I fear I will take up too much of your space. In conclusion I will say that all in all I like Frankfort, but, somehow, I can not help believe that down in old Christian the sky is bluer, the grass greener, the flowers sweeter and God and Heaven nearer than any other spot on this hospitable globe.

Meeting at Miller's Chapel.

Evangelist W. L. Logan, of Nashville, will preach at above place on next Sunday, Feb. 9th, morning and night. The public is cordially invited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today agreed upon a substitute for the resolution heretofore reported on the question of the recognition of Cuba, and authorized Senator Morgan to report it to the Senate. The substitute is in the shape of a concurrent resolution. The recognition of Cuba it is believed is not far away. Greener Opens His Bids.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Four thousand and six hundred and forty bids for $568,268,850 worth of bonds.

Such is the total of the subscriptions opened at the Treasury Department today in accordance with the terms of the call issued a month ago inviting proposals for $100,000,000 of United States 4 per cent. bonds to run for thirty years, from February 1, 1896. These figures do not include about $120,000,000 of "crank" bids rejected as bogus.

It is impossible to tell with definiteness how many bids and for what aggregate had been received at figures that are not yet made public. The bids, at which a syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., Piny, Fisk & Co. and the Deutsche Bank, of Berlin, offered to take the whole lot. The bids ranged from par up to a single $50 bid at 150. It is impossible, therefore, to say at this time how the average bid was made.

Bids came from several thousand individuals and from hundreds of national banks and other banking institutions. Nearly all of the leading New York banks and big insurance companies were represented in the list of bidders, but with few exceptions they were outnumbered by the Morgan syndicate.

Four Will Be Probated.

W. D. Ferguson's will was admitted to probate Monday. He names his son Harry Ferguson as executor. The executor is authorized to sell as much of the property as may be necessary to pay the debts, the remainder to go to himself, as the only heir.

The will was made December 2, 1895. Benj. Downer's will was also placed on record. He names his sons F. N. and J. W. Downer as executors, and without security, and he bequeaths his entire estate, after his debts have been paid, to his children in equal shares. The will was dated Aug. 17, 1895. A codicil Sept. 6, '93 authorized the executor to sell the real estate for division.

Dr. Dan E. Collins appointed his wife, Mrs. Mary P. Collins, as executrix, leaving all his property to her, after the payment of his just debts. The will was dated May 27, 1895.

Benj. Lacy's will was probated and the following disposition made of his property. David Lacy, son of the appointed executor without bond David W. Robinson was given $25,000; Corn and Belle Cavahay, daughters of Jno. H. Cavahay, $10,000 each; John Robinson, $5. He directed the sale of his personal property, the proceeds to go to the Baptist Association to which his church belongs, for the use of indigent ministers, or for missions. Whatever remains on notes and other items to go to the same association. This will hears date of Oct. 18, 1893.

The amended Graziani pool-room bill passed the Lower House of the General Assembly of Kentucky by a vote of 71 to 13. The bill was amended so as to allow pooling on races at the tracks, but kills the city pool-room, by making it felony to operate them, and imposing a heavy fine on any person who rents a room to pool-room operators.

Numerous efforts had been made to collect the fine, and the authorities are anxious to have it paid. Smith will have to serve out his term in jail.

PROVIDENCE, Ky. Feb. 4.—William M. Smiley, town marshal, was shot here to-night while attempting to arrest James J. Jordan Hughes, farrier of near Lexington, Tennessee. James, who is a tough fellow, shot him in the darkness, but Jordan is in custody. A posse is in pursuit of James. It is expected he will be captured before morning.

Great excitement prevailed. Mr. Smiley had been on the duty only two weeks and was a vigilant and fearless officer. He leaves a wife and three children.

Marble Dealer Assigned.

Mr. T. F. Brown, dealer in marble and monumental work, has assigned, naming Judge Joe McCarroll, as assignee. The liabilities, as shown by the schedule, amount to $6,277. The assets consist of a stock of marble goods and monumental work, tools for carrying on the business, some real estate, and a lot of accounts. Mr. Brown has been in very bad health for some time, and together with slow collections and dull trade, caused him to take the step in order that all his creditors might be protected alike.

Sent Up for Seventy-Eight Days.

Charles Arbuckle, col., was arrested near Newstead, Tennessee, on a charge of carrying a pistol and pointing same at another. His trial occurred Wednesday, before Judge Brantlett and he was given 78 days in the work house. When Arbuckle saw the officer approaching him with a warrant he ran, and they had a lively race for half a mile before the negro stopped and threw his hands up. The other took a shot or two at the negro, but failed to hit him.

Robbed the Asylum Felt House.

A few nights ago thieves broke into one of the lock-rooms of an out-building at the asylum and carried off about $15 worth of clothing. The burglars prized off the lock and helped themselves, but fortunately there was very little booty at hand and the haul was sympathetically a small one.

HER-IN-LAW.

was a good deal of a mother's boy—that is to say, such a warm affection existed between mother and son that it was remarkable in this day of filial filiality.

When it became known that Adelaide was engaged to his son, his friends grew jealous in wishing her to go to the court she should pursue in regard to her future mother-in-law.

"When a mother had always had such complete ascendancy over a son it was always a hard matter to make her recognize a wife's right, and if this was to be done positive measures must be employed from the first." So her friends said, and her own mother gave her some good advice in the same line, while her sister Nell deplored the necessity of having a mother-in-law and reviewed all the traditions in regard to those very undesirable personages.

With so much instruction and warning Adelaide was also imbued with very positive notions on the subject. Of course he was an only son and his mother a widow, but she could never consent to live in the same house with the elder woman. It all was to go well she must begin right. Of course Ned loved his mother, but marriage would put him under new obligations. At her first opportunity she explained it all to him and insisted that they should keep a separate establishment.

Ned looked pained, but he said: "I shall do as you say in the matter, Adelaide, though I had looked forward to a very happy companionship between you and my little mother. She is not hard to get along with, I know, and she could have helped you so much with her advice and counsel in the household affairs."

But Adelaide showed him how a mother-in-law, by her very love and preference for her son, might cause discussion between husband and wife.

Perhaps he was not convinced, but he yielded the point and they were married. All of Adelaide's friends congratulated her upon her good sense, and behind his back praised Ned for his consideration in sparing his wife the presence of a mother-in-law. But he gave himself the satisfaction of setting up housekeeping within a block of the mother he loved.

Sometimes at night, when he and Adelaide sat alone by the fire, he thought of his mother and wished that she might be with them, but on the whole they were happy and no morbid thoughts entered his brain, for he believed that in time Adelaide's own good sense would triumph over the prejudice aroused by officious friends. But this was his mother's wisdom.

There were times when the elder Mrs. Chatterton went a little too far. She dropped the daily vision of her son's joy, but she said nothing and kept her tears to herself. Ned was very faithful and dutiful, but she never got on to his house, because her presence always seemed to put Adelaide in a mood of defense, almost bordering on aggression. The young woman was determined to be understood, and plainly understood, that she would tolerate the interference in her affairs of no mother-in-law.

In the first glow of conjugal joy Ned had neglected his club, but as time went on and the household began to move in the accustomed routine he began occasionally to drop in and spend a social hour with his man friends. At first it was but once in two or three weeks and only an hour or two then. Then he went more frequently and stayed later.

Some evenings Adelaide was very lonesome, and after awhile when he was pining her, but broke down and burst into tears.

His face was flushed and he answered her impatiently: "Nonsense, Addy; don't act like a baby; you must remember that you are a woman. You oughtn't to expect a man to stick in the house all the time."

It wasn't so much what he said, but the tone in which he said it, that hurt her and made her sob silently until she fell asleep.

There was something restrained and shame-faced in his manner as he kissed her good-bye the next morning and went down-town, but in the evening he returned early and after dinner he did not go out. He was restless and nervous, and didn't seem to be reading the paper which he held up before him. Between husband and wife there was an embarrassing silence. There seemed to be no common theme for them to talk about. They retired early, and again Adelaide's pillow was wet with tears.

Her heart was over all and she wanted sympathy and counsel. To whom should she turn? Would not her father tell her that she was foolish? Would not her mother be angry and blame Ned? Would not Nell pity her? No, she could go to none of these. Then suddenly she thought of Mrs. Chatterton. She understood Ned. She loved him. Would she not also understand the situation and be able to advise her?

Then she went down to her mother-in-law and sobbed out the whole story to her. The old lady took her in her arms as she would have taken a tired child.

"You poor little girl," said she, "Ned has been very bad to you and you don't know how to manage him; how should you? But be patient; we shall bring the young man around all right." Mrs. Chatterton bent down and kissed the girl, who lay sobbing in her arms, and went sprang up in the young wife's heart.

It was a matter of some doubt whether Ned was most pleased or surprised when, on the following night, Adelaide said to him: "Would you mind going to the club to-night, Ned? Mother and I are going out for a little while and I am afraid you will be lonesome."

"Certainly not," he replied, "but I

"YOU POOR LITTLE GIRL," SHE SAID, "Ned has been very bad to you and you don't know how to manage him; how should you? But be patient; we shall bring the young man around all right."

"Oh," he said tenderly, and he was slow in getting his hat, and he kissed her twice before going out. He came home early that evening and his mother was just about to leave as he entered. She paused only long enough to say: "I'll be back to-morrow evening. Mr. and Mrs. Delaney are coming with the hope of beating you and Addy a few games of cards. I'll have to come and make a Welsh rabbit for you, I suppose."

"That will be just the thing," said Ned. "I'll show Tom Delaney whether he can beat us at cards or not. Be some, mother. Wait a minute and Addy and I will walk home with you. Won't we, dear?" But his wife was already throwing on her cap.

Next night Mr. and Mrs. Delaney came and Ned and Adelaide were beaten, but Mrs. Chatterton made the Welsh rabbit, she had never made a better one—and there were jokes and stories and bright conversation all through the short evening.

Delaney proposed that the three Chattertons come over to his house the next evening and get their revenge, and they went. There were more jokes and bright talk, and, best of all, this time Ned won.

"How pleasant these evenings are," he said to Adelaide, as with her on one arm and his mother on the other he wended his homeward way, "and how foolish I have been to have been wasting time at the club; we must keep this up, shall we not?" They were just at Mrs. Chatterton's gate, but Adelaide put her hand on the old lady's arm.

"You are going home with us to spend the night," she said.

"And there is to be no demur, little mother," added Ned, sweeping her on past the gate. She could not but consent.

Far into the night, after Mrs. Chatterton had gone to bed, Ned and Adelaide talked. They made plans for future pleasure and their youthful joy seemed the revival of the honeymoon enthusiasm.

"We shall have such glorious times," said Ned. "Mother is right here near us."

"She must be nearer, Ned," said Adelaide. "I want her to live right here with us."

"But, Adelaide—"

"Ned, I desire it. Don't say no. I've got over some foolish notions of mine and I just begin to find how much I need a mother-in-law."

Her friends say: "It is strange that after starting out so well she would let him bring her mother-in-law into the house. I suppose he compelled her, that's the way with men."—Chicago News.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paragol, Bismarck's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called soothing syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria," and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are known by every mother. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

It is given out as a settled fact that a new morning paper will be started at Louisville in the next few weeks. It will be called the Louisville Democrat and will advocate a double standard and old-fashioned sinners pure Democracy. Dan E. O'Sullivan, of the Critic, who is one of the ablest and best informed editorial writers in Louisville, will be editorial assistant and goes without the saying that he will make it lively for the Courier-Journal from the start. The daily will be a two cent paper and will cover the entire news field. A Democratic paper is badly needed in Louisville and as a state organ and the Democrat will at once assume the leadership of the party press, which has been without a leader in the state since the Louisville papers changed their politics two or three years ago.

Dr. Hugh F. McNary, of Princeton, who was tipped for first assistant of the Western Asylum, has declined the offer and been appointed Superintendent of the Lakeland Asylum. His appointment was expected to be sent in yesterday, together with that of Dr. L. E. Goslee, of Carrollton, for first assistant of the same institution. Dr. McNary has lived in Princeton all his life, and stands very high in the esteem of every citizen. He has been a successful physician for many years, is a highly educated gentleman and will fill his position with credit to himself and honor to the state and his native city.

Senator Petree, of Elkton, stated in an interview this week that he and two other Republicans would vote for Judge Willis L. Reeves for United States Senator if Blackburn would withdraw. Wonder how Judge Reeves voted last fall in the race between Judge Petree and Charlie Moore for the Senate? Senator Petree's proposition indicates that he knows more on this subject than the general public.

The Louisville Times is not disposed to give the poor man a chance for his life. It advocates the passage of the Weinsinger bill, abolishing the three days of grace on bank paper. Many a poor devil has saved his credit in this period of extension and there seems to be no pressing demand for this or any other legislation in favor of capital just now.

The Cashier of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas City was held up by a highwayman and robbed of $545. The robber was captured and the swag recovered, the company being more fortunate in this respect than the consumers of oil, from whom the money was originally taken.

The Nelson county Democrats did their full duty in the special election last week. Beckham received 1806 and Weller, the Republican candidate, 1022, making Beckham's majority 784. Hardin's majority was 802 and Wilson's for representative 625 in November. Mr. Beckham took his seat in the House Wednesday.

The Courier-Journal's Cuban correspondent has been ordered out of Cuba for telling the truth. The wonder is that the Courier-Journal itself didn't fire him. The fact that he had nothing to do with the editorial page probably enabled him to hold his job.

Lieut. Gov. Worthington is fast forgetting his promise to make a fair and impartial presiding officer. He refused to put a motion providing for the election of a state librarian Wednesday and advising the declared joint session adjourned.

One by one the bolting Democrats are falling into line for the nominee for Senator and now only Weinsinger, Carroll, Violet, Spreight and Walker are holding out. As the prospects of Democratic success become brighter, the Courier-Journal's opposition to the party's candidate becomes even more malignant and unscrupulous.

The lists of places and dates for national conventions this year is now complete. The Prohibitionists lead off at Pittsburgh May 27, followed by the Republicans at St. Louis, June 16, Democrats at Chicago, July 7, and the Silver and People's parties at St. Louis, July 32.

The war between the tobacco men of Clarksville still goes merrily on. They are still firing three-column cards at the public in the Springfield Leader and things have gotten into a beautiful mess. In the meantime, send your tobacco to Hopkinsville.

Judge Field has granted a temporary restraining order, preventing Mayor Todd from removing the Democratic members of the Louisville Board of Public Safety. The case will come up for a hearing Monday.

Blackburn gained four votes on the 18th ballot. That wasn't so bad for an unlucky number.

Rosie Weinsinger must feel sorter lonely, with every Democratic Senator save himself voting for Blackburn. Wheel in, Rosie, wheel in.

A CURABLE DISEASE.

Chronic Catarrh is Pronounced Curable by Dr. Hartman.

There are an almost countless number of remedies said to cure chronic catarrh. The most of these are of no use whatever, and many more than useless, being actually harmful. A few are successful in a small number of cases—those which are very slight and easily curable—cases which might almost get well by simply taking care not to take cold again. But of all these vast multitude of medicines it can not be said that there are more than two or three which are actually specific and without doubt the most reliable is Peruna. It always cures when it is faithfully and conscientiously used. It not only cures catarrh of the head and throat, but catarrh of the stomach, liver, bowels, lungs, bronchial tubes, kidneys and in fact and in any of the organs of the human body. It is indeed a dreadful case of catarrh, wherever located, that Peruna can cure, or at least greatly help. It may be procured at all the drug stores, and it should be given a faithful trial by those who have tried in vain elsewhere to get relief.

A book on catarrh and catarrhal diseases of 64 instructively illustrated pages will be sent to any address by The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio.

There are 1,523 different patented kinds of nails.

In 1884 Eugene Field wrote a story which he called "The Werewolf." When it was finished he hid it aside and a year afterward entirely rewrote it. In 1886 he again took it up and revised it, and during the nine years between that time and his death in November last he wrote it eight times. His last revision pleased him and he decided to print it. But death came too suddenly, and the story was found unpublished among his effects. Mrs. Field, concluding to have the story appear gave it to the editor of the Ladies Home Journal, in which magazine all of Mr. Field's work, outside his news articles, was presented to the public. The story will be published in the next issue of the Journal, strikingly illustrated by Mr. Howard Pyle.

All but four Democrats voted for Blackburn on the last joint ballot for Senator, but Hunter lacked two votes of the necessary sixty-eight. The result was Hunter 60, Blackburn 52, scattering 8.

WITNESS OF CLAY'S VOICE.

How it inspired the First Song of Henry Russell.

The magic power of the voices of great orators has often been described, but a politician's voice inspiring a song is a new idea. Henry Russell, the veteran English song writer and author of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," tells the story of his first effort in composition as follows: He was at the time living in America, and was organist in a church at Rochester, N. Y. Here he chanced to hear Henry Clay make a speech, the effect of which was peculiar.

"I asked myself," says Russell, "why, if Henry Clay could produce such an impression by his distinct, enunciation of every word, should it not be possible for me to make music the vehicle of grand thoughts and noble sentiments, to speak to the world through the power of poetry and song. I commenced to set to music Mackay's beautiful poem: 'Wind of the Winter Night, Whence Comest Thou? All the night through I paced up and down the room arranging the music for the poem, and I remember that the notion uppermost in my mind was to infuse into my music, as it were, the subtle charm of the voice of Henry Clay.' The song was a great success, and was followed by 'Oh, Woodman Spare That Tree,' 'A Life on the Ocean Wave' and other old time favorites.—N. Y. Mail and Express

A Great Clock.

The ancient city of Rouen, France, owns the very earliest specimen of the larger varieties of the ancient clock-makers' triumphs. It was made by John De Folan, and was finished and set going in September, 1280. So perfect in construction is this ancient time recording machine that, although it has been regularly striking the hours and quarter hours for more than a half thousand years, it is still used as a regulator.

Still Thinking.

Richards & Co's NEW SHOE STORE!

Our Shoe Department

Will be found in our new room, and we beg to say to our friends in all sections, that we believe that we can offer them as good shoes as can be found in the State. We handle all the new lasts, widths, styles, toes and at all prices; we ask your inspection. Our celebrated 24th Century Ladies' Shoes have been the admiration of all who have seen them, and our line of Gent's Shoes, and Children's Shoes cannot be excelled. Our steadily increasing trade in shoes necessitates the removal of them into another room.

We are also Headquarters for Dry Goods, Notions, Carpets and Millinery.
